Trustee selection for Amarillo precinct questioned

ASD residents can't vote for school trustee, AG says

Residents of that portion of the Amarillo School District which lies in Randall County will not be able to vote in the April 5 election for county school board trustees, but exactly who will serve as trustee from one county precinct remained in doubt at week's end.

A Texas Attorney General ruling issued last week confirms opinions rendered two years ago by then-Dist. Atty. George Dowlen, who said those persons living in the AISD in Randall County are disenfranchised in the county school board election.

The official attorney general's opinion states: "Residents of a county-line independent school district may not vote in elections for county school trustees of a county which does not have administration and control of the school district in which they reside."

But, while the opinion from the state official clears up who may and may not vote, it does not provide an answer to another question concerning who may serve if no one can vote.

The opinion affects directly those residents of the Amarillo school district who live in Randall County commissioner precinct four, a precinct which lies wholly within the Amarillo school district.

Under the opinion, AISD voters could not vote for county school board candidates from that precinct. Thus, it would not be possible for any votes to be cast in the election. The county school trustee precincts correspond to the county commissioner precincts.

District attorney officials had petitioned for the AG opinion last June to clarify who could and who could not vote for the county school trustee from that precinct. The opinion was necessitated by a change in the Texas Election Code which on its face seemed to indicate residents of AISD could vote for the county trustee. The opinion rendered, however, indicates the opposite.

Dist. Atty. Randall Sherrod said it appears there will be no election in that Amarillo precinct on April 5 as scheduled. Amarillo accountant Don Marsh is the incumbent trustee from that precinct, but Marsh did not file for re-election to the board. Gordon Hendricks, an Amarillo insurance agent, did file for election to the office from that precinct.

Now, county school trustees and the district attorney must grapple with the question of who is to serve as the trustee from that precinct after April 5.

Marsh contends he is to serve until his successor is named and should thus continue in office indefinitely. Hendricks says he is interested in being appointed to the office. But, Sherrod is not sure Marsh can be replaced or re-appointed.

"It depends on what the trustees want to do on it," he said. "When they decide what they want to do, they can ask me to check out the legality and I'll work on it."

Sherrod said the only law he can think of at the moment concerning such a situation is a constitutional provision which says that an elective official will serve in office until his successor is appointed or elected.

Marsh, who has served on the board since 1969, said he will not resign from the board even though he didn't file for re-election.

"It's up to the board," he said. He said he is interested in continuing to serve on the county board of trustees and did not file for re-election because "I figured that was what the attorney general was going to say."

Marsh contends that he cannot be replaced by the board.

"They've got me and they can't get rid of me," he said with a laugh.

Hendricks said he is still interested in being appointed to replace Marsh, if that is the wish of the other four board members. But, he would not indicate whether he will formally approach the board for appointment.

The Texas Election Code has a provision for appointing a replacement for a trustee to fill an unexpired term. However, there are no other provisions in the code pertaining to the county school trustees which would allow the board to appoint a replacement for Marsh or even to appoint Marsh.

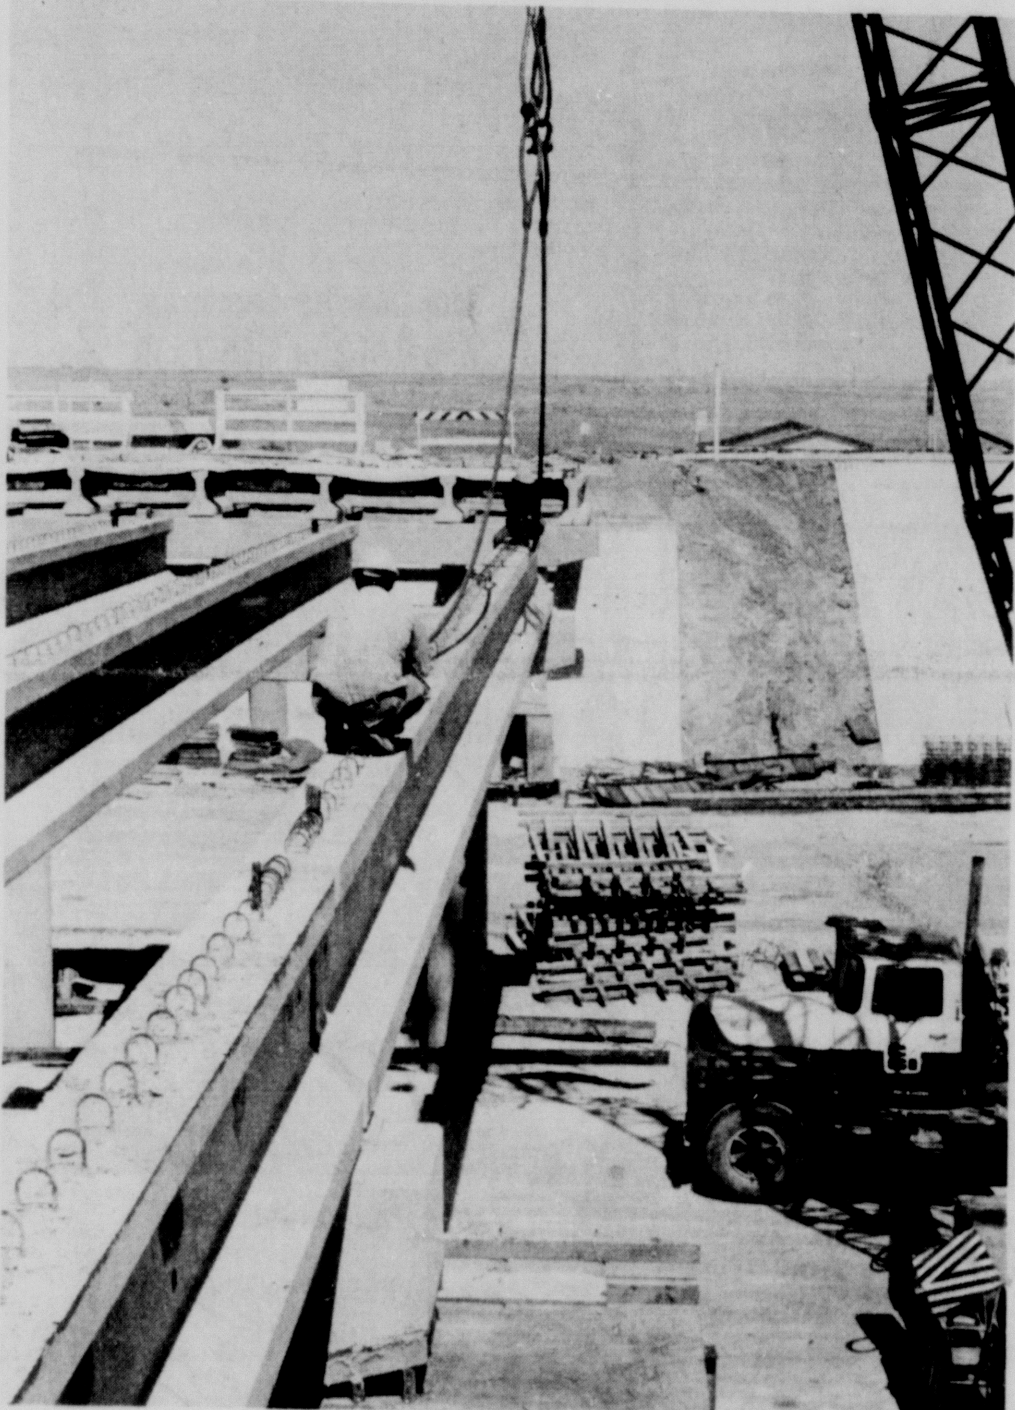

Marsh did not run for office in 1973, either, because Dowlen told the board of trustees the law operates to prohibit residents of his precinct from voting. According to official minutes of the board, Marsh was not appointed to the board at that time, either.

Three other questions answered by the Attorney General in last week's opinion have already become moot points, according to Sherrod.

The opinion also said: "where territory sought to be detached from an independent school district contained no scholastics (school children) according to the last scholastic census, cannot be detached unless a (See TRUSTEE, page 9)

Visiting team WT report favorable; changes urged

A generally favorable report was issued by the visiting accrediting team from a national accrediting organization after their campus visit in February 1974 to West Texas State University, although several suggestions and recommendations for change were made.

The report of the visiting committee of the Southern Association of Colleges and Schools, which reviews colleges for re-accreditation every decade, was made public last week. The committee visited WTSU for several days in February 1974 after university faculty and staff members went through an extensive required self-study procedure.

Several recommendations made by the visiting team, which later recommended re-accreditation of the university, concerned areas which have already been addressed in university changes. And several concerned the operation of the university's new library facility.

One recommendation of the visiting team is that the professional library staff be accorded full faculty privileges, possibly including faculty rank, and that the salaries received be increased so they are comparable to the salaries of the teaching faculty.

Another recommendation is that no new undergraduate or graduate programs be initiated without a specific monetary allocation to the library for purchase of adequate library materials to support the new programs.

Yet another recommendation is that the library hours during the summer sessions be increased to at least 80 hours a week.

The visiting committee recommended in its report that "immediate steps be taken" to reduce what it terms the already exist-

City is still waiting for HUD go-ahead

Canyon city officials were still waiting at week's end for notification which was to have come Thursday from the federal Department of Housing and Urban Development that the city could receive grant money for community development.

HUD officials had said they would respond to cities' preliminary applications for funding under the new community development program by March 20.

Canyon officials submitted a pre-application for funding under the program for construction of city streets in West Canyon. The pre-application went first to the Panhandle Regional Planning Commission for approval and then was forwarded to HUD.

The federal agency was to have informed the city by Thursday whether they were "invited" to submit a formal application for the funds.

Officials are not sure whether Canyon will receive substantial

A storm of protest is brewing among South Randall County farmers and ranchers who feel a cloud seeding program for hail suppression in Hale County is also suppressing summer rains for their crops.

Seven area farmers and ranchers travelled to Austin last week to lodge formal protest against issuance of a permit for weather modification activities by the Texas Water Quality Board to the Plains Weather Improvement Association based in Plainview.

They'll have a representative appear before Randall County commissioners Monday to seek passage of a resolution objecting to the Hale County weather modification activities.

Barring some unanticipated action, cloud seeding will begin April 1, over a widespread area, including parts of southern Randall County, in an effort by the Plains Weather Improvement Association to stop hail which might damage crops in Hale County, the target area for the water quality board permit.

Randall County farmers and ranchers who testified during the Austin hearing believe that the attempts to suppress hail in Hale County are suppressing rain in Randall County, due to the nature of summer storm activity.

Happy area farmer Bruce Fields, who was one of the seven to go to Austin, said he'd rather take his chances with nature than with cloud seeding programs.

"You can insure against hail, but you can't insure to get rain," he said.

Fields, who's farmed in the Happy area for 45 years, said he believes the hail suppression, weather modification activities conducted by the Plains Association have substantially modified the potential for rains on crops in the Randall County area. And, he said hail has not been a major economic factor in his farming operation in his 45 years.

"I don't know of but three years when the majority of our crops were hailed out," he said.

Fields and Nolan Henson, a south Randall County rancher, say that most good thundershower storms during spring and summer months come over Randall County from the southwest after building near the New Mexico border. They charge that pilots for the Plains Weather Improvement Association seed clouds as they form, thus suppressing the possibility of hail, alright, but also suppressing any possibility of rain. Thus, as the clouds pass over Randall County, they can produce neither.

In fighting hail in Hale County, they say, the weather modifiers are destroying rain for Randall County.

Fields said he's seen thunderclouds build and has watched as pilots fly into the clouds, breaking them up and assuring no rain or hail.

Likewise, Henson charges in the face of denial by the Plains group that pilots use cloud seeding to inhibit moisture altogether.

Fields and Henson also believe that while Hale County cotton farmers, who for years have had a plethora of underground water for irrigation, may consider rain less important than suppression of hail, Randall County grain sorghum farmers and cattle raisers need all the rain they can get.

"For cotton farmers, they'd just as soon not have any rain," Henson said.

Hale County has for years been a leading agricultural production county in Texas, largely due to its excellent underground water supplies, according to County Agent John Brazzil. He said the vast majority of land in

Funding to be asked again for Metro

Funding will be sought through the Texas Criminal Justice Council for another year's cooperative operation of the once-controversial Metro Intelligence Unit, the News learned last week.

Amarillo Police Dept. Lt. Jimmy Davis, recently named coordinator of the unit, confirmed he is working up a grant request to the CJC for one year's funding of the unit.

Current funding, which expires in late June, was for one year only after the Metro Unit's three-year start-up grant ran out last summer.

Davis, who assumed control of the unit last month from J. T. Carver, also an Amarillo policeman, said he plans no substantial changes in the operation of the unit under the new funding program.

The Metro unit, which includes officers from Randall County sheriff's office, Potter County Sheriff's office, Deaf Smith County's sheriff's office and the Amarillo and Canyon police departments, has been steeped in controversy ever since its inception. The governmental units contributing men and equipment to the unit were locked in debate at this time last year over the unit's effectiveness.

New guidelines for the unit's operations were put into effect last June with new funding, after Randall County Sheriff Cliff Longest and others charged that then-Amarillo Police Chief Paul Hulsey was using the unit as his department's vice squad. Since that time, the unit has been operating as an intelligence gathering and coordinating agency.

Longest, most vocal critic last year of the squad's activities, said he now believes the unit "is working."

"I believe we ought to try it another year the way it's set up right now," he said. "Indications are it's doing its job. It's coming closer to doing what we actually wanted out of the unit than it has in the past."

Longest said he is more pleased with the operation of the unit now "than I have been in a long time."

He said he would support

Others would cut state funds

Bill would allow board's abolition

A bill has been introduced in the Texas legislature which could abolish the county board of school trustees and several others are pending which could substantially alter the board.

House Bill 715, introduced by Rep. Bob Close who represents a district in the northern Texas Panhandle, would establish election procedures for voting on whether a county school board should be abolished.

The bill amends the Texas Education Code to allow abolition by vote of either the office of ex-officio county school superintendent or the entire county school board.

Currently, Randall County has both an ex-officio superintendent and a county school board. County Judge Woody Pond serves as ex-officio superintendent and receives state monies to pay a portion of his salary. County school board members, recently embroiled in controversy surrounding the annexation of Canyon School District territory by the Amarillo School District, include R. B. Gist, Jr., chairman, J. D. Barker, Don Marsh, Joe Turpin and Charles Purcell.

If Close's bill is passed it will provide the following:

"Upon a petition of 10 per cent of the qualified voters who cast a vote in the governor's race preceding general election in counties of less than 100,000 population . . . the county judge shall within 90 days of the receipt of such petition call an election to determine by majority vote whether the office of county superintendent (or ex-officio county superintendent and the county school board in counties having an ex-officio county superintendent) shall be abolished . . ."

County Judge Pond, who noted that several years ago efforts were made to have the Randall County school board abolished, said he believes the county board serves a purpose, and the purpose is illustrated by the recent controversy surrounding the annexation of school properties.

Close has also introduced another bill which would probably not affect the Randall County situation, but the bill was not available for reading. House Bill 714 calls for abolition of the office of county school superintendent and county board of trustees in a county where there is only one common school district and fewer than 25 pupils in average daily attendance.

However, another bill which has been passed by the House and sent to the Senate could place the financial burden for picking up the tab for county school superintendents on coun-

No trouble is seen on annex legislation

Legislation to legalize the construction of Randall County's South Amarillo courthouse must undergo minor revision but is in no danger of running into trouble, county officials were told last week.

Rep. Bob Simpson of Amarillo, who represents Randall County in the House, told County Judge Woody Pond the bill should have no trouble passing the House and Senate and receiving the okay of Gov. Dolph Briscoe.

The measure, House Bill 951, was introduced early in the legislative session by Simpson at the request of the Randall County commissioners and was considered in a hearing of the Intergovernmental Affairs Committee at mid-week.

Commissioners John Fulgenzi and Jim Fletcher travelled to Austin for the hearing, testified and returned to report a favorable reception for the bill which will allow the county to locate several offices in the $600,000 annex facility.

Pond said the bill was referred to a subcommittee for a partial rewording, but is expected to be substantially unchanged. He said Fulgenzi and Fletcher reported they were well received by the

Too Much Is Wasted

By ANN BROWN
Americans are weary. No-war, inflation, recession, unemployment, spiraling taxes, and increasing federal intervention in private affairs are exhausting.

But eternal vigilance is still the price of liberty.
Many good men's response to the proposed Equal Rights Amendment has been a dejected shrug: "The women want to run everything; let 'em have it."

Jack Hightower has been criticized for opposing the federal revenue sharing plan. But evaluate his reasons; he gave some very plausible ones.

First, we are adding $50 billions to the federal deficit this year. Does Washington have the money to share?

However, if the $ billions being spent studying the frigate, why people say "ain't," the odor of Australian aborigines, Polish bisexual frogs and Zlotnika pigs, Indian whistling ducks, Yugoslavian crabs, German cockroaches, and hundreds of similar projects, were applied to the national debt instead of the deficit, perhaps we could balance the budget.

It is so easy to sit back and blame the government for everything. But what is the government?

We are the government. We protest deficit spending (and we should — we have to pay the bills), by local, state and federal governments, but how many individuals, families, churches, and schools are living beyond their means?

If you cashed in your total assets and paid your debts, what would you have left?

Our organizations are operating on the same basis the average individual does: "Go now and pay later."

It may be later than we think. Another objection given to the revenue sharing plan is the disposition of the funds.

Instead of being returned to the taxpayers in the form of lower tax rates, it is usually spent on civic luxuries.

Retired people on fixed incomes are probably the most oppressed Americans. Their property taxes continue to climb while inflation eats up their inadequate retirement paychecks.

Have the people who are demanding $1,000 a month for beginning teachers asked the retired teachers who may get as little as $100 a month how they survive?

Many teachers who supported families on $100 a month (9 months pay only), found it far more adequate than the $100 a month the lone pensioner gets now.

Gov. Briscoe does not oppose the $1,000 annual pay raise for teachers because he thinks they don't need it. He objects to the corresponding tax increase he feels the property owners cannot survive.

If inflation continues at its present rate, it will destroy the America we know and love. It can only be stopped by somebody's sacrifice.

Recently, the employees of a few firms have offered to take salary cuts. The wiser plan might be the one used by United Air Lines some 20 years ago:

Two pilots approached President W.A. Patterson, and asked to discuss wages. He steered himself off an inevitable refusal.

"Pat," said the spokesman, "we know recession has hit the business. So we've talked everybody along the line into taking a 10 per cent cut in pay to help pull you through."

When the president recovered, he expressed his gratitude, but refused to accept the generous offer. "A 10 per cent wage cut would save about $300,000 a year," he said. "I bet we could save that much by eliminating waste."

The pilots agreed. "We'll see how many economies we can effect," they said.

The two pilots reported the president's decision, and organized a drive against waste of human effort and materials. They urged every employee to help make up the deficit by more efficient operating.

Within a few months, savings were estimated at more than $185,000.

Michigan State U. has been granted $342,000 to study the sex life of their students.

The Board of Tea Tasters got $117,150 to taste tea.

Speaker Carl Albert got $161,650 to redecorate his office.

If that kind of money could be added to all the economies executives, employees, and housewives could effect, there would be plenty of money to increase teachers' pensions and salaries.

Every laborer is worthy of his hire — but not at the expense of his fellow laborer.

Drill Team To Compete

Composed of 10 women, the Angel Corps drill team at West Texas State University will compete in the Annual Governor of Arizona Drill Meet in Phoenix April 12.

Sponsored by the military science department at Arizona State University, the meet will bring 22 teams from 12 universities competing in inspection, regulation military drill and exhibition or fancy drill.

Captain Russ Moore, WT Military Science Department, will accompany the group led by Ethel Gooden, Amarillo senior, drill team commander.

Angel Corps won first place in the group competition during the St. Patrick's Day Parade in Shamrock March 15.

Olympic Winner Identified Wrong

Olympic Gold Medal winner, Doug Russell, presented the awards to area scouts in the recent Explorer Olympics held on the campus of West Texas State University and was incorrectly identified by the Canyon News in the March 20 issue as a resident of Mexico.

Russell received the Olympic Gold Medal in swimming competition at the Olympics held in Mexico with a win over Mark Spitz, swimming star.

Russell, who was raised in Midland, is a resident of Amarillo and currently coaches the Amarillo Aquatic Club there.

Energy Considerations Should Be Eyed Now

By CARROLL WILSON

As with all things, what we do today will have an impact on tomorrow.

A pertinent example is in the current interest in conserving energy resources, particularly those which are depletable, those which come from the ground and cannot be put back.

While hard to accept, it is generally well established that oil and gas, for example, are of the depletable variety and will, possibly before the sun sets on the 20th century, be as extinct as the dinosaur.

If this is true, if we do face the possibility of increasingly declining energy resources from oil and gas, it would follow that it is patently false economy to continue to squander those resources.

Perhaps it is a testimony to the faith of mankind, rather than a criticism of his short-sightedness, that he continues to construct monumental and small energy users with the apparent abiding belief that the future will take care of itself.

In Canyon, for instance, several public buildings are under construction and virtually no consideration has been given to the saving of energy in their operation once construction is completed.

The Canyon city hall was built with nary a word said in open session by city commissioners about the conservation of energy which could be affected by certain architectural techniques or devices. No architect was queried within earshot of The News on the possibility of using the non-depletable and free energy from the sun.

Rather than an example of blatant ignorance, or worse, blatant lack of concern, this illustrates that faith mentioned earlier. Apparently Canyon city commissioners believe that Southwestern Public Service Co. and Pioneer Natural Gas Co. will still be in business 30 years from now and still be providing electricity and gas.

Certainly there is no reason to believe that both firms will not be operating as they are now, possibly using other resources than oil and gas to generate their products. But, it is shortsightedness bordering on the immoral for men responsible for city government to make no effort to assure that the oil and gas we have now can be stretched for another few years.

That is not to say that progress is immoral. It is to say that initiation of a project of some size without investigating all possibilities to conserve energy is irresponsible.

If man is anything on this earth, he is corporately responsible for the welfare of his neighbor. That's a part of the Christian ethic which some may reject, but without this concept it's virtually impossible to rationalize man's involvement in such social necessities as government.

That Canyon city hall, or the new fine arts building at West Texas State University, are the only buildings we should be concerned with as far as energy use is concerned is simply an irresponsible attitude. And, it is even more irresponsible when viewed in the light that the Canyon city hall, for example, is the only building Canyon city commissioners are constructing and are therefore responsible for.

They should have done their bit, in other words, for conservation of natural resources.

Commissioners didn't, and it's too late to try to start over.

Perhaps it's not too late for other projects, however.

University officials have virtually rejected efforts to compromise the beauty or stateliness or majesty of a planned new fine arts building with the mandate for energy conservation.

The building will be built and it uses more energy than it could otherwise be designed to use, that is apparently another example of the abiding faith of man in the workings of the future.

Now, it is true that energy conservation measures in architecture — such as use of a solar or wind energy conversion unit for heating and cooling — cost more today than do conventional energy and architectural systems. It may also be true that architects are not well versed in energy conservation measures available.

But, those who build monuments today must seriously consider what they will pay thirty or forty years from now, when fossil fuels are scarce, when nuclear energy is expensive and when electric and gas companies can charge what they like for their products.

City commissioners and university officials may find they've been a penny wise and a pound foolish. Already there are indications (just look at your gas and electric bills this winter as compared to last winter) that energy costs will skyrocket in the future. Is there any reason to believe they will come down?

New buildings are long-term investments. They are expected to serve for long periods of time. If faith in the future availability and economy of energy is not warranted, today's new buildings could become the albatrosses our children must bear for our mistakes.

Letter To The Editor

To A Friend

To the Editor:

It seems as if in this day and time a lot of people don't seem to know and understand our boys and young men. I will say first I do know. We do have some, regardless of what opportunities and the way they were brought up, get into trouble in one way or another.

Let us stop and think of the many nice boys we do have. I know they wear their hair long and have parties, but they are no different than other boys and men since time began. I would like to say a few things about one in particular, Gary Crume (who was killed in a car wreck this past week end). He had been renting an apartment from us for two years, first with two of our grand-boys. Gary belonged to the Phi Delta Theta Fraternity, we met a large group of these boys and they were all very nice, polite boys.

My husband (Jake LaGrone) has been sick for the past four years, in the last two years he was much worse and had to have oxygen at all times, and was bed-fast about 3 months before he passed away. Almost every day or night Gary came and helped me wait on him doing things such as changing oxygen, getting medicine or anything I needed. All I had to do was call and he was there, it didn't matter if it was early or late, I knew he would be there in a minute and help. When Mr. LaGrone was in the hospital six weeks before he passed away, each morning Gary checked to see if I needed anything before he left (he went to school in the morning and worked at Blackburns in the afternoons). He would stop and have coffee and toast and jelly with me. I often cooked a pie or cake or rolls and took it to him so he would have something when he studied.

I worked eleven years at the Amarillo Air Force Base, mostly in boys wards and loved each and everyone of them. I felt sorry for them because they were so young and far away from home and I made many friends, some I still hear from. Having five boys and 15 grandboys of my own I have had a little experience with them. I have learned that love and kindness works best with all boys. I do love them, they have been so nice and sweet to me.

I have lost a fine boy and a great friend. I do know our Father and Savior does all things well. He gives life and he takes away — at his own appointed time. Some day we will understand this. I pray God's richest blessings on his family, Debbie, his girlfriend, all of his many friends at WT and elsewhere. I do miss him so very much. It's nice to have sweet memories of someone like Gary. He, like our grand-boys, called me Granny and all his friends who came to see him.

A loving and true friend,

Mrs. Jake (Granny) LaGrone

Sunrise Services Planned

Traditional Easter Sunrise services were planned this week by the Canyon Pastor's Association to be held in Pioneer Amphitheater at Palo Duro State Park on Easter Sunday, March 30.

The service will begin at 7:30 a.m. with Rev. Jim Hancock, pastor of the First Baptist Church of Canyon, presenting the Easter Sunrise message. Music for the service will be presented by the choir of the First Presbyterian Church of Canyon.

Admission will not be collected at the park entrance for those travelling to the Sunrise Service. Local and area residents are urged to participate in the service.

The Canyon Pastor's Association sponsors a special fund to care for transient relief of indigents and will be accepting funds for this service through Darold Baldwin, associate pastor of the First Baptist Church of Canyon.

Mrs. Ricky Dean Hoyler
nee Althea Elizabeth Thomas

Miss Thomas Marries Hoyler In Double Ring Ceremonies

Double ring marriage vows for Miss Althea Elizabeth Thomas and Ricky Dean Hoyler were confirmed in ceremonies Saturday evening, March 22, at South Georgia Baptist Church in Amarillo with Rev. Lloyd Riddle officiating.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred E. Thomas of 7510 Lamont Drive, Amarillo and graduated from Canyon High School in 1970. She is a former student of West Texas State University and is presently employed by Kelly-Moore Paint Company of Amarillo.

A graduate of Pampa High School, the bridegroom is the son of LaNeta Hoyler of 1717-B Kirkland in Amarillo and Harry Hoyler, Jr. of Beirut, Lebanon. He formerly attended West Texas State University and is employed by Devco Paint Company in Amarillo.

Presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a floor length wedding gown of peau de soie organza designed with a fitted bodice and overlaid with chantilly lace which was outlined with seed pearls. The Juliet sleeves featured organza attached to fitted cuffs with a ruffled edge. The controlled skirt featured side fullness and extended into a sanctuary train with a silk organza ruffle bordering the skirt and train. Her tiered veil of imported illusion was bordered with lace and attached to a bridal cap as she carried a nosegay arrangement of white roses, carnations and baby's breath with lavender and white ribbons.

The wedding ceremony was preceded with a musical section including Because, I Love You Truly and The Lord's Prayer which were presented by organist, Marla Shadix, and vocalists, Mr. and Mrs. Bill Phillips. Candelabra decorated with greenery backed the altar with side candelabrum and brass urns filled with gladioli, carnations and lavender daisies framed the setting for the marriage. Aisle candelabra and a white aisle runner completed the decorations. Candlelighters were Fred Alan Thomas, a brother of the bride, and Lee Boren.

Miss Linda Boren of Amarillo served as the flowergirl and wore a lavender and white formal length gown as she carried a white basket filled with rose petals.

The bride's matron of honor, Mrs. James T. Winters of Houston, and bridesmaids, Mrs. Joe Lowe of Austin and Mrs. Austin Schaeffer, Jr. from Sabinal, Texas, wore matching lavender and white formal length dresses and carried nosegay arrangements of lavender and white daisies.

Miss Debra Kay White pledged double ring marriage vows with Barry Dee Stevens in an early spring ceremony Saturday evening, March 22, at the First Baptist Church of Happy with Rev. Paul Heil officiating.

Altar decorations featured a large urn arrangement of white Killian daisies and Dutch iris with yellow mums, orange and lime carnations and Woburn Abbey roses with accenting foliage of pussy willows, scotch broom and variegated pittisporum. Spiral candelabra garlanded with greenery and two smaller urn arrangements of spring flowers flanked each side of the altar along with matching 15-bract arch candelabrum with greenery accents.

Wicker baskets filled with spring bouquets and complemented with green and white checkered ribbon were hung over the altar area and framed each side of the sanctuary. The bridal path was framed with aisle candelabrum garlanded with salal leaves and tied with matching green and white checkered ribbon as lime green tapers were used for all of the candle arrangements. The church foyer was garlanded with greenery which was tied with matching green and white checkered bows and highlighted with spring flowers.

Wedding guests were registered by Miss Patty Welch of Amarillo and the soloist, Steve Vernon of Fort Worth, presented Whither Thou Goest, For Baby and The Wedding Song with accompaniment by Mrs. Clovis Vernon of Happy. The nuptial service featured the bridegroom's solo arrangement of The Wedding Prayer as the couple knelt at the profile altar. The Wedding Processional from the "Sound of Music" was used as the wedding party entered the church and the recessional was Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring by Bach.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. Mack White of 2601 11th Avenue, Canyon and received her high school diploma from Canyon High School in 1970. She graduated from West Texas State University with a B.S. in elementary education and was a member of Chi Omega Sorority while a university student. At the time of the marriage, Miss White was employed with Steven's Flowers in Canyon.

Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Stevens of Route One, Happy, are parents of the bridegroom. He graduated in 1970 from Happy High School and attended West Texas State University where he was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon. The bridegroom is presently coaching at Pringle Independent School District and was previously the youth and music director for the First Baptist Church in Happy.

For her wedding, the bride selected a formal gown of white silk organza over bridal taffeta designed with a fitted empire bodice and high closely fitting neckline framed by Cluny lace. Appliques of Cluny lace in a floral design enhanced the bodice and short sleeves of the wedding dress. The A-line skirt flowed softly into a back fullness which cascaded to a full chapel train with a half belt for back interest. Appliques of Venice lace in a scalloped pattern traced the hemline of the wedding gown with Cluny lace featured in a floral design.

A matching camelot cap of Venice lace in a lattice work effect held the bride's veil of illusion which flowed to a chapel length tier over the wedding gown. The blusher veil was framed with lace and the bride carried a cascade bouquet of white japhette orchids and white sweetheart roses with accenting stephanotis and English ivy.

Attending the bride as maid of honor was Miss Sharen Dietz of Happy with bridesmaids including Mrs. James E. Thompson, Jr. of Houston and Mrs. David Freeman of Canyon, and Miss Susan Lindemann of Canyon as the bridesmaid.

Formal length dresses of lime green and white checked gingham in a pinafore styling with high waisted bodices featuring white eyelet embroidery were worn by the bridal attendants. They carried wicker baskets filled with white daisies, Woburn Abbey roses, orange and lime green carnations and accenting sinuata status, gypsophila and giant green star flowers and wore clusters of matching spring flowers in their hair.

The bridegroom's brothers served as best man and groomsmen for the occasion and wore black tuxedos with boutonniere clusters of spring flowers. Terry Stevens of Wayside was the best man and the bridegroom's other brothers, Larry Stevens of Odessa, and Jerry Stevens of Odessa, were the groomsmen. Ushering were Paul Thomas of El Paso and Jay White of Canyon, a brother of the bride.

Mothers of the couple wore corsages of mixed spring flowers for the occasion and the bride's mother selected a full length dress of yellow jersey with a waist jacket trimmed with white collar and cuffs. The bridegroom's mother wore a full length dress in pastel blue with a trimmed fingertip jacket.

A lime green and white checked gingham cloth with an overlay of eyelet embroidered featuring a gathered floor length skirt covered the bride's table for the reception in fellowship hall of the church. A candelabra epergne of mixed spring flowers centered the reception table where the all white bride's cake was decorated with spring flowers on the top layer with cluster arrangements on other layers of the wedding cake. Crystal appointments were used as Terri Crawford of Canyon served the wedding cake and punch was served by Carol Gohlke of Canyon.

The bridegroom's table was covered with matching lime green and white and featured chunky candles in yellows and lime greens with a variety of spring foliage decorations. A hanging mobile arrangement of mixed spring flowers hung above the bridegroom's table where a china coffee service, which had been handpainted by Mrs. Ernest White, grandmother of the bride, was used as Miss Seleta Abbott of Canyon and Miss Debbie Davis of Clayton, N.M., served.

After March 30, the couple will establish their home at Route 1, Box 7, Stinnett, Texas.

Miss Atchley-Hicks Married In Ceremonies Here Saturday

Calvary Baptist Church was the setting for the double ring marriage uniting Miss Terri Lynn Atchley and Howard Randall Hicks in marriage, Saturday evening, March 22.

Rev. Derrel D. Lewis, pastor of Calvary Baptist Church, officiated at the exchange of vows. The bride is the daughter of Kenneth D. Atchley of Dallas and June Ann Baker of Amarillo. Parents of the bridegroom are Mr. and Mrs. Roland B. Hicks of 1104 3rd Avenue, Canyon.

The church was decorated with a large sunburst arrangement of yellow gladioli with lime green carnation accents at the choir railing. Flanking the choir railing were seven bract candelabra accented with natural green foliage and matching urn arrangements featuring yellow gladioli with lime green carnations. Traditional wedding music was presented at the organ by Mrs. Lynn Crabtree with the vocalist, Marilyn Schuette, presenting The Lord's Prayer. The organist presented We've Only Just Begun as the recessional selection.

Escorted and presented in marriage by her father, the bride wore a formal gown of white organza and bridal taffeta trimmed with yellow organza. The fitted bodice featured a pinafore styling of white chantilly lace with a yellow organza ruffle which also formed the neckline in a slight V-effect. Her long fitted sleeves featured Juliet styling formed by chantilly lace and yellow organza.

The A-line wedding gown featured a silhouette skirt with a chantilly lace banding and a deep organza flounce which swept to back fullness above a hemline flounce of organza. She wore a matching mantilla veil edged entirely with chantilly lace in a floral design which cascaded to a chapel length. The wedding veil had a separate blusher veil.

Her wedding bouquet was a cascade arrangement of yellow tint carnations with white pickie carnations and accents of baby's breath.

Attending the bride were Janice Hill of Amarillo as the matron of honor, and bridesmaids were Lee Hicks of Canyon, a sister of the bridegroom, Rhonda Mowry of Amarillo and Rose Ann Ham of Canyon. The bride attendants wore dresses of lime green dotted swiss featuring triple tiered skirts. Each skirt tier was edged with lace and the lace accents were repeated around the empire waists, at the neckline and tracing the cuffs of each attendant's gown. They carried nosegay arrangements of yellow mums accented with natural green foliage.

Ronnie Hicks, brother of the bridegroom, served as best man. Groomsmen were David Carter, Randy Reed and Charlie Ham, all of Canyon.

Candlelighters for the ceremony were Bradley Hicks, brother of the bridegroom, and Chris Baker, brother of the bride. Stefanie Jo Baker, sister of the bride, served as the flower girl.

Ushering were Kevin Atchley, brother of the bride, Ernie McBrayer and Brad Martin.

A reception for the newlyweds was held immediately following the ceremony at the church's fellowship hall. Spring flowers decorated the refreshment table where the wedding cake and punch were served by Teresa Mowry and Sheila Thomason.

The bride is a former student of Canyon High School and is presently employed with Gattis Shoes of Amarillo. The bridegroom, a graduate of Canyon High School, is employed as a bricklayer for his father, Roland Hicks.

Marriage Ceremonies Unite Sally Lowry-Tony Airhart

Yellow chrysanthemums, white Easter lilies, palm leaves and arched candelabrum framed the altar of the First Congregational Methodist Church of Amarillo Saturday evening, March 22, as Miss Sally Marie Lowry and Tony Dale Airhart pledged double ring marriage vows.

Rev. John Staat, camp director of the Singin' River Ranch in Colorado, and Rev. Gordon Schroeder, of the First Congregational Methodist Church, presided at the exchange of marriage vows. A large cross was suspended on the back altar wall of the church with accenting Easter lilies and palm leaves.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Warren D. Lowry of 2000 Jackson in Amarillo and is a senior nursing major at West Texas State University. She is a member of the Scribes Honor Society, Alpha Chi, was named to Who's Who in American Colleges and Universities and was involved with the Campus Crusade for Christ. She is employed in the surgical intensive care unit of St. Anthony's Hospital in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Tommy D. Airhart of 2816 Lloyd, Amarillo are the parents of the bridegroom. He is a senior biology education major at West Texas State University and is on a basketball scholarship. The bridegroom is on the Dean's Honor list, was a member of the Campus Crusade for Christ and is employed with Buck's Sporting Goods in Amarillo.

The marriage ceremony included vocal selections by Mrs. Johnny Brown of Amarillo which were The Way He Loves, One Life, and Sweet, Sweet Spirit. Accompanist at the organ was Mrs. Orville Ladehoff.

Presented in marriage by her Phebean Class Has Book Review Here

"The Hiding Place" by Corrie ten Boom was reviewed by Lynette Pipes for 13 members of the Phebean Sunday School Class of First Baptist Church at their meeting March 13 in the home of Laura Hartman.

Ruth Allen, president, was in charge of the meeting and a guest for the session was Jo Ann Reynolds.

parents, the bride selected a white bridal satin A-line wedding gown featuring an overlay of silk organza which cascaded into a circular wedding train. An edging of chantilly lace framed the silk organza with accenting beadwork on the draped wedding train. Her mantilla styled wedding veil featured chantilly lace extending to the mid-back. The neckline of the wedding dress featured a scooped rounded front with a "v" for the back interest.

Attending the bride were Mrs. Gary Mooring of Leander, Texas who wore a sky blue sheer silk dress and carried a wicker basket filled with daisies and cornflowers with matching cornflowers in the hair. Other bridal attendants were Mrs. Gordon Schroeder in apricot attire, Miss Marilyn Mansfield of Carlsbad, New Mexico wearing a dark lime green, and Mrs. Rex Frieze of Amarillo who wore a deep sunny yellow dress of matching material.

Mark Nixon of Canyon served as best man. Groomsmen were Randy Hamrick of Amarillo, Gary Mooring of Leander and Mark Wible of Fort Worth. Ushering for the occasion were Rex Frieze of Amarillo, Benny Mize of Brownwood and John Sloan of Canyon.

After a wedding reception in the Federated Women's Club Building, the couple departed for a wedding trip to Red River, New Mexico. For travel the bride was wearing a deep sunny yellow jacket and pants with navy accents and complementary sunny yellow footwear.

The couple will be at home at 2600 Tyler in Amarillo.

Miss Friemel Marries Fred Irlbeck

St. George Episcopal Chapel in Canyon was the setting for the late afternoon marriage of Miss Pamela Friemel and Raymond Irlbeck Thursday, March 20, with Rev. Jack Gist of the Catholic faith performing the single ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. R. Friemel of UMBARGER and graduated from Canyon High School last spring. She was formerly employed as a credit interviewer with Sears in Amarillo.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Irlbeck of Canyon are parents of the bridegroom who also earned his high school graduation at Canyon High School. He is presently engaged in farming and ranching activities with his brother, Gilbert Irlbeck.

Traditional processional and recessional selections were used as Mrs. Fred Begert, organist, presented the musical selections A Time For Us from Romeo and Juliet, Hymn of Joy, Mother At Your Feet Is Kneeling and Let It Be Me.

Floral arrangements of blue and white baby mums were featured at the altar and servers of the mass were Bobby and Chuck Janssen, nephews of the bridegroom.

Susan Spurlock served as the maid of honor and wore a formal baby blue dress with floral designing in a styling similar to the bride's dress. She carried a bouquet of blue and white corsages and was escorted by the bride's brother, David Friemel, who served as best man. For her wedding, the bride wore a white and ivory full length wedding gown of French taffeta trimmed with Alencon lace and seed pearls. The bodice featured an overlay of scalloped matching lace and the Peter Pan collar featured scattered seed pearls. The long puffed sleeves were designed of French taffeta with matching lace forming a layered effect with terminating cuffs at the wrist.

The straight skirt was slightly gathered at the waist featuring matching French taffeta with cascading layers of white and ivory Alencon lace. The skirt terminated with a flounce hem of French taffeta. Her fingertip veil of sheer illusion had a lace border and was scattered with seed pearls on the Juliet headpiece. White carnations, stephanotis and baby's breath formed the bride's wedding bouquet.

For the wedding of her daughter, Mrs. Friemel wore a navy and white dress suit with matching accessories and had a white carnation corsage. The bridegroom's mother selected a white carnation corsage to complement her aqua blue knit long dress for the occasion.

Wedding guests were registered by the bridegroom's niece, Kelly Irlbeck, and his nephew, Steve Irlbeck, performed the ushering duties.

The 5:30 p.m. wedding ceremony was followed with a buffet reception for the couple as blue and white baby mums centered the buffet table at the Episcopal Center. A cut crystal punchbowl was used as Linda Mackey served the punch and the three tiered wedding cake was served by Mrs. Jim Irlbeck.

A navy blue dress styled with a navy and white polka dot layered look design was worn by the bride as the couple departed the wedding reception. She wore a corsage lifted from the bridal bouquet.

The couple will be residing southeast of Canyon.

On Saturday, March 15, the bride was honored with a personal shower by close friends at the Tower Apartment of Susan Spurlock.

Happy CowBelles Say Eating Less Beef Won't Aid Starving

Monday is American Agriculture Day in Texas and a Happy area woman believes it's also a day during which the facts about the beef cattle industry should be clarified for the record.

Mrs. Mary Neal Henry, immediate past president of the Texas CowBelles and now a national director of the organization, believes American consumers may have been sold a bill of goods on the role of cattle in the food consumption cycle.

The CowBelles have proclaimed the Agriculture Day and the Happy CowBelles will display exhibits in the Happy area to commemorate the day.

Mrs. Henry told The News last week that faulty information, misleading statistics and simplistic slogans have "convinced some people that eating and producing less beef in this country will somehow mean more food for the rest of the world."

It is true, she said, that there are millions of starving people in areas of the world, but it is not necessarily true that cutbacks in American beef consumption will alleviate their starvation.

"Critics of beef production overlook the fact that 75 percent of all feed consumed by cattle is inedible by humans," she said. "Cattle are ruminants, animals with four stomachs. That means they can produce high quality protein for human consumption from otherwise unusable resources such as grass, straw, husks and other fibrous and pulpy materials. In fact, the ruminant is a walking protein factory."

What's more, Mrs. Henry said, the majority of a steer's life is spent on land that cannot grow food for humans — nearly 900 million acres in the United States alone.

"Were it not for ruminants like cattle, millions of acres of land might not be useful for producing any sort of food," she said. "That is a luxury we cannot afford. In a sense, because this land cannot be used for anything else, it represents a 'found' resource, one that is totally renewable with little or no energy consumption."

In preparing cattle for the consumer's table, Mrs. Henry said the animals are not fed grain — either corn or grain sorghum — until they have achieved more than three-fourths of their final market weight. Even so they are not fed more than three pounds of grain for each pound of live weight over their lifespan.

"Not all cattle are grainfed," she said. "In 1974, more than 35 percent of slaughtered cattle were grass-fed and this percentage will probably increase in years to come."

In fact, she said, cattle for beef can be produced without the use of any grain and without lessening the nutritional value of the product. Grain feeding has been found to improve the flavor of the beef, and for many years cattle could be profitably fed on surplus grain in this country.

Now, however, Mrs. Henry noted, current economic conditions and the depletion of American grain reserves have forced a reappraisal of the beef feeding industry. Cattle now are kept on grass for longer periods and stay in feedlots shorter periods of time. As this trend continues, she said, total grain usage by the cattle industry could be reduced by one-third or more.

"It must be remembered that the grain fed to cattle is not just 'consumed,'" she said. "Actually, the cattle improve the protein to high quality animal protein."

About eight percent of corn is protein, but it is incomplete and only 56 percent of the protein content is usable by the human body. However, seventeen percent of the retail weight of beef is protein of which 80 percent is usable. Even if wheat were grown in place of the feed corn, protein comparisons put beef on top. Wheat is 10 to 12 percent protein, about 52 percent of which is usable.

"Pound for pound, in amount and quality, beef protein cannot be matched by any vegetable, fruit or grain."

Math Winners Named

Sixteen winners were named in the annual mathematics contest for high school students last week at West Texas State University.

Irene Mitchell of Canyon High School won third place in the Class AAA division.

Representing 31 schools, 310 participants took the test, consisting of questions on algebra, geometry, basic logic and trigonometry.

Following the contest, counseling was made available to students interested in majoring in mathematics and a film was shown.

Dr. Ted Freidell, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, and Dr. Hollis Cook, head of the Mathematics Department, presented the awards.

Fred Barnett's

Rites In Clovis

Funeral services for Fred Barnett, 72, were conducted at Steed Memorial Chapel in Clovis, N.M., with Dr. H.E. Bergstrom, pastor of Parkland Baptist Church of Clovis, officiating on Thursday, March 20.

Mr. Barnett died Tuesday, March 18, at Memorial Hospital in Clovis. He had lived in Clovis for the past six months and prior to moving there had been a 25-year resident of Canyon. He operated a service station and other interests while residing here. He was a retired farmer and member of the Parkland Baptist Church in Clovis.

Burial was at Mission Garden of Memories. Survivors include his widow, Trudie; two sons, J.W. of Canyon and L.O. of Clovis, N.M.; seven grandchildren and nine great-grandchildren.

Collection Boxes Placed By Friends

Collection containers have been placed in Cooper's Thriftway, Ideal Grocery, and Taylor & Sons Food as well as Gibson's Discount and at the Canyon City Library to collect "used books, records, tapes" and other similar saleable items by a committee from the Canyon Friends of the Library.

The Friends will conduct a sale of the collected books on May 3 to raise funds for projects to benefit the local library.

Anyone wishing to help with the collection, pricing and sorting of the books for the sale should contact the book sale chairman, Earl Reynolds, at 488-3541.

Buffs To Begin Spring Drills

Football will return to the West Texas State University campus along with vacationing students, when the Buffaloes of Coach Gene Mayfield don their pads for spring drills April 3.

A month of spring training is mapped out for the Buffaloes, who pulled out a 6-5 winning season last fall and a 3-3 record in Missouri Valley Conference play.

The Buffs will hit their practice field for the spring on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, and Thursdays and Saturdays will be their days for scrimmage. The spring game for intrasquad action will be at 7:30 p.m. May 3 at Kimbrough Stadium.

With a tough schedule of Missouri Valley opponents, the Buffs add some new teams to their roster for next fall's season. The start of school will see the West Texans take on new rivals Northeastern Louisiana and McNeese State of Lake Charles, La. Other games are against traditional MVC and non-conference rivals such as North Texas, U.T. Arlington, Tulsa, Lamar, Wichita State, Utah State, New Mexico State and Louisville.

The Buffs are heavy on experience going into spring drills with 36 lettermen and 12 starters returning from the 1974 squad. Seven squadmen and 11 players who earned freshmen letters are also on the spring training roster.

The outlook for spring drills and, thus, the outlook for the fall:

OFFENSE

Once again West Texas State will work out of the Wishbone-T, the predominantly rushing set used by many offensive machines. Junior quarterback Tully Blanchard returns to run the Wishbone, and again will give WT a strong passing attack to balance the ground game.

DEFENSE

When you do something you know is good, you don't change it. West Texas had the Missouri Valley Conference's top team against scoring last year, and new defensive coordinator Jim Crossland has indicated that he will stick with the basic 4-3 defense.

That doesn't mean that it will be the only defense, as Crossland, formerly with the WFL's Chicago Fire, will try some innovations of his own.

STRENGTHS

A wealth of experience on both the offensive and defensive lines

Tracksters Take Fourth

Last week, the Canyon High School Eagle track team finished fourth in the Plainview Bulldog relays.

In the pole vault event, Garre LaGrone won first place honors with a vault of 13 feet. Adrian Foil took first place in the broad jump by jumping 21-2. The jump is one of the better ones in the area to date.

Russell Killingsworth placed third in the 120-yard high hurdles with a time of 15.8. Also garnering a third place honor was Kevin Raef in the 220-yard dash with a 22.6 clocking. Wayne Robinson's discus throw of 144-1 was good for another third place for the team.

In total scores, Amarillo Tascosa took first with 123 points, Lawton with 108, Lubbock High with 100 and Canyon with 60 followed by Muleshoe, Plainview and Pampa.

The team competed in Perryton yesterday but results weren't available at press time.

Choir's Golf Tourney Set

A golf tournament sponsored by the Canyon High School choral department will be held April 5-6 at the Hunsley Hills golf course.

$10 for 18 holes. Proceeds will go toward the choir's upcoming trip to Galveston, choir banquet and choir awards, according to director Tom Jennings.

Prizes will be donated by Canyon businesses. Tickets are available from choral members.

The bill, House Bill 226, terminates state fiscal support for offices of county school superintendent or ex-officio school superintendent effective Dec. 31, 1978.

If the bill passes, Randall County would begin paying what salary the state has in the past paid Pond as ex-officio superintendent.

make prospects bright for WT. Three starters on the offensive line, including all-MVC selection Jeff Lloyd, return for the 1975 campaign, and three of the four down linemen on defense will also be back. Heading the list of defenders is all-Valley tackle Floyd Jones.

Blanchard at quarterback, and halfbacks Eddie Richardson and Richard Riggins also return after starting most of 1974. Placekicker Bruce Wyre led the Buffs in scoring with 42 points a year ago, and punter John Paul Lee was outstanding the second half of the '74 season.

WEAKNESSES

Replacing all-MVC receivers Tracy Dickson and Merced Solis will be a big chore, as will replacing center Alton Cranford, another important position in a Wishbone offense.

On defense, linebackers are scarce with Steve Rogers on the strong side and all-MVC Bruce Davis in the middle both graduated. Cornerback is also a problem area with all-Valley

Rick Mordecai and part-time starters Scott Hindman and Mike Walker gone.

TOP NEWCOMERS

Only two junior college transfers are on campus for spring practice. Defensive back Tommy Mills was an all-conference performer at Hutchinson, Kan., Junior College, and quarterback Tracy Qualls led Henderson County JC of Athens, Texas, to a pair of winning seasons.

HONORS CANDIDATES

Defensive tackle Floyd Jones and offensive tackle Jeff Lloyd were both all-Missouri Valley Conference players a year ago, and should be in the running for national honors this year.

Gene Mayfield calls strong safety Michael Kelson "as good a strong safety as I saw in the conference last year," and he also has high hopes for sophomores-to-be Larry Spears at linebacker and Mike Lusane at defensive tackle.

In addition to Lloyd on offense, guards Bob Brown, Greg Whetstone, and Jackie White are of excellent caliber. Tight end Keith Oxley could develop into a great player.

Hale County is irrigated. Randall County, on the contrary, has little underground water and the vast majority of cropland is sown in dryland crops.

Henson said the seven farmers and ranchers who travelled to Austin last week were unsuccessful in their efforts to prevent the Plains Weather Improvement Association from obtaining their permit.

But, he said they will not quit fighting the weather modification activities.

He said they must come up with proof that the cloud seeding is affecting their rainfall, and must come up with proof to their charge that planes flying for the association are flying out of their stipulated area to seed clouds to prevent hail.

He said there is currently legislation pending in the Texas Legislature which would require a referendum vote before weather modification activities could be conducted in a given county, and indicates support will be rallied for passage of the measure.

Walter Graham, Canyon school board member and well-known Hereford rancher in the south part of the county, will appear before Randall County commissioners Monday to seek passage of a resolution protesting the weather modification activities.

"We're going to have a resolution Monday against the darn thing," County Judge Woody Pond said.

A required notice of intention to engage in weather modification activities in the southern portion of Randall County was run as an advertisement in The Canyon News three issues in March.

The notice describes the area and aims of the Plains Weather Improvement Association. According to the notice, the area over or within which planes may operate for weather modification activities includes portions of Hale, Lamb, Castro, Swisher, Briscoe, Floyd, Crosby, Lubbock, Hockley, Deaf Smith, Pomeroy and Randall counties.

The notice says the association will seed the clouds with silver iodide nuclei.

The cloud seeding operations will begin April 1, according to the notice, and will be discontinued on Nov. 30.

West Texas State University physicist, William Beasley, who has pursued research on thunderstorms, indicated that unless the pilots for the Plains Weather Improvement Association are well trained it is entirely possible to seed a cloud intending to prevent hail and at the same time prevent rain.

He said the cloud must be seeded just enough to prevent hail but not enough to prevent rain and that the line between how much is too much is a hazy one.

It is also possible, he said, to increase rainfall with cloud seeding, but if too many silver iodide crystals are poured into the cloud to prevent hail, rainfall could also be inhibited.

funding under the new program.

Last fall, when the program was first announced, Admin. Assistant Tom Plumlee prepared a request for $31,000 for the first year of the six-year program. His proposal called for partial funding for a community development specialist and funding for the Canyon Senior Citizens Association. HUD officials, however, said such a program would probably not be okayed and Plumlee developed a program calling for several streets in West Canyon to be paved.

City officials are still not sure how much money might be available for the city to use in paving the streets.

Nor are they sure whether funding will continue after the first year, if the first year is funded.

Annex . . .

House committee.

No objections were heard to the bill, he said.

He quoted Simpson as saying he anticipates no problem with the bill.

The legislation, which if passed will affect all Texas counties, gives each county the power to provide and maintain an office building in one or more cities other than the county seat, having a population of 15,000 or more, and that branch offices may be maintained in such office building for county officials excluding the district clerk, district and county judges, county clerk, and the county treasurer.

The bill calls for all original records to be maintained at the county seat. The cost of any such office building, under the provision, could not exceed more than two per cent of the taxable values of the county for the last preceding year.

One section of the legislation declares legal all acts taken previous to the passage of the bill in constructing branch court-houses for officers.

Randall County commissioners last fall issued certificates of obligation for $600,000 and authorized construction of the South: Amarillo annex. Architect's plans called for branch offices for the sheriff and the tax assessor-collector, but space has been provided for branch offices for the justice of the peace, also. Commissioners indicated a change order would be issued to construct the office space for the justice of the peace after passage of the legislation.

ing proliferation of programs and courses in the social sciences, and to prevent further duplication and proliferation of programs currently under consideration at undergraduate and graduate levels. The team recommends establishing some method of coordinated planning, sharing of resources or administrative grouping.

The visiting team also recommends that unless the university can provide additional faculty for the physics department the master's degree program in physics be abandoned.

Currently, the physics department has three faculty members.

The teaching loads of the graduate assistants at the university should be reduced sharply, the visiting team recommends, and work of the graduate assistants should be closely supervised.

The visiting team made several suggestions concerning the athletic program at the university.

"The committee . . . suggests that an in-depth study of the intercollegiate athletic program be conducted to clarify and project its long-range goals, objectives, financing and appropriate location in the administrative organization," the committee suggests.

The committee further suggests that "the university rethink its goals in intercollegiate athletics with due consideration to the total cost of athletic programs in comparison to reasonable expenditures of income from student fees and ticket sales."

The visiting committee said that while some faculty members have complained of what they believe to be a "proliferation of administrative positions, the facts simply do not bear out their premise."

The committee said the workloads and responsibilities of administrators would indicate even a need for further administrative positions, possibly including a director of summer sessions.

The visiting committee commended the university for its efforts at trying to increase the university's enrollment, but was concerned about the retention rate of students, particularly freshmen and sophomores, and urged a further effort at academic counseling.

The visiting committee suggests that pay increases or promotions be given faculty members who are involved in productive research programs. A reduction in teaching loads is also suggested to allow for research.

Blue Gem Opens Here With Jewelry

A new business in Canyon known as the "Blue Gem" has facilities located in the back portion of Thompson's of Canyon and was opened here March 10 by Mike McConathy.

The "Blue Gem" is a specialty shop carrying authentic Indian turquoise jewelry and featuring custom jewelry work.

McConathy fills his counter space with loose stones including turquoise, emeralds, diamonds and other precious stones which he uses for custom jewelry making of rings, necklaces, tie tacks and other selected jewelry items.

The "Blue Gem" is open from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. daily.

McConathy, 23, studied silver work and stone setting while attending Abilene Christian College for 3 1/2 years. He is a native of Fort Worth and son of Mr. and Mrs. J.G. McConathy of Fort Worth. He plans to complete his degree in industrial art at West Texas State University.

Going somewhere? Or been? The Canyon News wants to know about it — and so do its readers.

majority of the trustees of the district from which it is to be detached sign the petition to detach.

"any proposed annexation of territory to an independent school district must be approved by a majority of the trustees of the receiving district."

"a county board of school trustees, after hearing a petition to detach, and annex territory from one school district to another may order, but is not compelled to order, such detachment and annexation, such an order being reviewable administratively, but the final administrative decision is reviewable in court only for abuse of discretion or lack of substantial evidence."

All four opinions were sought in relation to a controversy surrounding petition to have 176 acres of land in the north part of the Canyon School District detached and annexed to the Amarillo School District.

County school trustees voted 3-2, with Marsh voting with the majority, last November to allow the 176 acres of subdivision land to be annexed by the Amarillo school district.

Since that time, Canyon School Board members have appealed the county trustee decision to the state commissioner of education, who is still considering an opinion.

Russell Killingsworth, hurdler for the Canyon High School track team, placed third in the Plainview Relays last week. The team travelled to Perryton yesterday but results weren't available.
